COURSE OVERVIEW

Either in the more commercial type or in the option of art cinema, the film is a field where we recognize social structures and the relevant philosophical ideas. In the course, we will watch certain parts or whole films (Greek and non-Greek), analyzing their social features and studying simultaneously the relevant ideas. We will examine social forms, as represented on the film. As a field of “utopia”, cinema managed to supplant other forms of art (literature, theatre, opera etc.), due to its directness. During the course, we will contrast the social forms with “utopia”, as represented by the directors inside the film.
